The Bar Council Advocacy Training Committee has organised Advocacy Training Courses (“ATCs”) throughout Malaysia for Members and pupils in chambers, with the primary objective of improving the standards of advocacy and producing better advocates. ATC aims to teach advocacy skills to lawyers in their first to third years of practice, in order to effectively identify and rectify basic mistakes in advocacy, and to offer guidance to new practitioners on the correct way to present themselves and their arguments in a courtroom.

ATC utilises a specific method of advocacy teaching that is deployed in Commonwealth jurisdictions, which requires participants to perform as advocates in a simulated courtroom setting under the guidance of experienced and trained practitioners who will observe their performance and offer personalised guidance.

Testimonials from Participants

“I came out from the ATC, despite a short two days, a better lawyer. The ATC enables us to know our strengths and weaknesses ... not to discourage but to encourage us to strive for greater heights. Learning with fun is a bonus point of the ATC where the trainers are approachable, encouraging and down-to-earth. I am most grateful for their willingness to impart their knowledge accumulated over the years to fresh young lawyers.”

“This course was very beneficial to me especially as a young practitioner. I would suggest the ATC to my friends. The training really helps you to be confident, and teaches you to manage your cases: the strategies and tactical methods in questioning witnesses, court decorum, how to present yourself in court and most importantly, how to be the best advocate you can be ... I attended Court with more confidence ... no more getting bullied by senior lawyers, even though I am only 10 months in practice!”

“By the second day of the training, I could actually feel the difference in myself. I could conduct better questioning of witnesses and I was able to extract evidence from the ‘witness’. The training pushes us to a higher level of competency in our advocacy skills. These are the reasons why I highly recommend this training to my fellow colleagues and friends. No matter how good we are, there is always room for improvement.”

“I am grateful for the ATC which is so beneficial to young lawyers. All the trainers are approachable and helpful, and generous in sharing their knowledge and personal ‘secrets of the trade’. Besides, I do not feel humiliated in front of the trainers and other peer trainees because everyone is very friendly.”

Employers have also commented that their juniors have returned from the weekend sessions with improved skills, renewed purpose, and increased confidence in their abilities.

Bar Council Advocacy Training Committee telah menganjurkan Kursus Latihan Kepeguaman (Advocacy Training Course, "ATC") di seluruh Malaysia bagi Ahli Badan Peguam Malaysia dan pelatih dalam kamar dengan objektif utama untuk meningkatkan standard kepeguaman dan menghasilkan peguam bela yang lebih cekap. ATC bertujuan untuk menerap kemahiran kepeguaman ke atas peguam yang berpengalaman beramal satu hingga tiga tahun, untuk mengenal pasti dan membetulkan secara berkesan kesilapan asas dalam kepeguaman, dan untuk menawarkan panduan kepada pengamal baharu tentang cara yang betul untuk menampilkan diri dan berhujah di mahkamah.

ATC menggunakan sejenis kaedah khusus pengajaran kepeguaman yang diguna pakai dalam bidang kuasa Komanwel, yang memerlukan para peserta tampil sebagai peguam bela berlatarkan bilik mahkamah secara simulasi dan di bawah bimbingan pengamal undang-undang yang berpengalaman dan terlatih yang akan memerhati prestasi peserta dan menawarkan bimbingan secara peribadi.
